

Concept by Karen MacDougall. Artwork created by Haltwhistle Youth Club (Young and Sweet) and their leaders, working with Karen, staff from the Vindolanda Trust and FV assistant Clare Forsythe.

An awareness-raising mosaic artwork was created using pieces of waste material, based on a geophysical survey of the fort site. Climate change is causing the ground to dry out, which means that precious artefacts and information are being lost. We need to act now!

The project started with an inspirational visit to the Roman Army Museum and Fort Magna site. We then ran a number of sessions at the youth club's base in Haltwhistle to create the artwork. The recycled materials included egg boxes, milk bottle tops and margarine tubs to fabric and metal foil offcuts from other Frontier Voices Projects. The original artwork will be on permanent display at the Haltwhistle Youth Club. The banners are on display at the Roman Army Museum and Vindolanda.
